

Darrell Russ has come to put the town he loves, Frederick, Maryland on the map! With years of honing his craft in clubs at festivals, artist showcases and some of the most respected and successful record producers studios, Darrell Russ released "Don't Remember Me," a three song EP that set the stage for a passionate, soulful singer who was born and raised in Frederick, Maryland to bring the world of entertainment his expression of disco, soul, country and R&B in one voice. Growing up about 45 miles west of Baltimore and 45 miles north of Washington, DC, his parents were both musically involved as his mother was a country western singer and his father a singer playing multiple instruments. Darrell "Martin" Russ was named after the famed line of Martin guitars being born into and named after music; Darrell Russ was destined to create and perform his art. When you get to experience Darrell live you will be and see how he captivates audiences with his high-energy stage performance and deep, soulful singing that connects from the first note he delivers.
